

Critical Emergencies require instant notification. If an emergency involves an entire community, it may require contacting thousands in a few minutes. Instructions to emergency personnel must be specific and detailed. Information to the public must be fast and accurate. Precious seconds and precise information can save lives.

Emergency Notification Technology

Powered By CallingPost

Message911 is an easy-to-use voice notification system designed to meet critical emergency alert situations. One telephone message immediately reaches First Responders, and then every parent in a school system or every person in a neighborhood as needed.

Message911 is proven, fast, and reliable. You can record your message using voice or near-human text-to-speech. Depending on current traffic congestion and other factors we have delivered as many as 3,000-plus calls per minute.

Message911 is accurate. You provide the exact details and instructions needed for the moment. You deploy personnel to match the precise scope and location of the crisis.

Message911 is flexible. It can activate other devices such as sirens, public address systems and EAS as a "single point of control".

Message911 is controlled from a phone or web browser anywhere and anytime. It can deliver to land lines, cell phones, pagers, mobile radios and PDA's.

Message911 is economical. There's no equipment to buy, maintain, become obsolete, or break down. No phone lines to manage, to get cut or pay for every month. Flexible pricing for small or large needs.

Message911 is GIS ready. Easy to use mapping tools seamlessly integrate map selections directly with the notification system. Map selections are a breeze.

Message911 is load-proven. We delivered over 2 million messages in one 12-hour period. Proof that no one else can match.
